FACIAL DISFIGUREMENT REMOVED.

Time was, and only a short while ago, when it was believed that a birthmark or scar could not be removed from the skin. But the science of dermatology has advanced until it is now possible and practicable to remove warts, scars, pimples, superflows hair, sec., without pain or danger to the person. Even buildness can be prevented, and where the glands are not dead the hair can be restored. You will do well if you are any way afflicted to consult with us about it—which will cost you nothing.

Do Circulars Pay?

Most decidedly they do. Advertising in reliable newspapers like The Evening Star is good, but well-written and well-printed circulars are sometimes better. My own experience covers both fields to some extent, and I strongly favor circulars. Try them yourself, but be sure you let me print them for you.

GUILTY AS INDICTED

Verdict Rendered in the Taylor Murder Trial.

The Defendant Colm and Remanded motion for a new trial, the jury first havremanded to jail by Judge Cole to await the sentence of death. The court room was crowded, and the verdict was evidently regarded as the right one.

regarded as the right one.

The jury retired at 4:15 yesterday afternoon, after having been instructed by Judge Cole in an elaborate charge. They had not agreed at 8:30 last evening, when they were locked up for the night, but about 9 o'clock this morning it was learned that a verdict had been reached.

In charging the jury, Judge Cole, after defining murder, manslaughter and excusable homeide, told the jury that the shooting had not been denied by the defendant.

Thomas J. Taylor.

made a two-fold defense—contending, first, that he was ir.sane at the moment the fatal shot was fired, and second, that the woman was accidentally killed by the ball which the defendant fired into his own body, striking a rib and then glancing out of his body into that of his wife. If the jury should find that Taylor was insane at the time, that is, explained the court, unable to know right from wrong, he should be acquitted. But, continued Judge Cole, if they believed that the ball he (defandant) shot into himself glanced and killed his wife, then he was guilty of manislaughter.

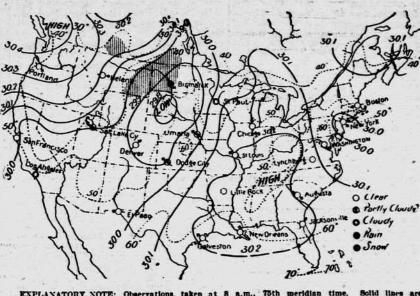

The court then at greaf length defined the legal meaning of insanity, telling the jury that mere passion is not, in law, insanity; for, said the court, legal insanity is such a diseased condition of the mind as renders the person afflicted incapable of distinguishing right from wrong. Neither does the law, said Judge Cole, recognize an uncontrollable impulse as excusing the offender, unless the person accused was unable to know right from wrong. Mere excitement, stated the court, which clouds the fining or memory, doss not, in law, constitute insanity, for if it did one could work himself up to such a degree of excitement, commit a crime while so excited, and then offer that as an excuse.

Speaking of expert testimony, Judge Cole himself up to such a degree of excitement, commit a crime while so excited, and then offer that as an excuse.

Speaking of expert testimony, Judge Cole told the jury that it, was to be considered by them as they considered all other evidence, giving it such weight as they alone believed right and proper. They should consider the actions and words of the defendant immediately previous to, during and immediately following the shooting, and then ask themselves whether such actions and language were consistent with the contention of insanity. An attempt to commit suicide, said Judge Cole, is not, in law, evidence of insanity, for many sane persons, he said, commit suicide. The doctrine of momentary or emotional insanity, when, it is claimed, a person is sane the moment previous and the moment subsequent to the commission of the crime, but insane the moment it is committed, Judge Cole severely condemned, it being explained by him that the law not only does not recognize but condemns as most dangerous such a doctrine. The alleged infidelity of the dead wife was referred to by Judge Cole, who told the jury that no man has the right to kill his wife because he suspects her or even knows her to be unfathful and if he does he is guilty of murder. THE OFFICIAL WEATHER MAP.

EXPLANATORY NOTE: Observations taken at 8 a.m., 75th meridian time. Solid lines are sobars or lines of equal air pressure, drawn for each tenth of an inch. Dotted lines are isotherms or lines of equal temperature, drawn for each ten degrees. Shaded areas are regions where rain or enow has failen during preceding twelve hours. The words "High" and "Low" show location of areas of high and low barometer. Small arrows fly with the wind. region. This morning's reports indicate a continuation of fine weather in the eastern and southern districts during Sunday.

Fine Weather Reported From Nearly Every District.

Forecast till 8 p.m. Sunday: For the Disrict of Columbia and Maryland, fair; northwesterly winds, becoming variable. For Virginia and North Carolina, fair; warmer in eastern portions; light northerly

Fair weather has continued in all sections save the upper Missouri valley, where the appearance of an area of low barometer of slight energy has been attended by local rains. The temperature has risen in the western and southwestern states, and has fallen in the northern Rocky mountain

COSTA RICA AND PANAMA

Mr. Hill's Address on the Geography and Goology of These Regions.

The Widely Contrasting Topography, Vegetation, Products and Customs Interestingly Described.

Geographic Society in the large hall of Cosmos Club last night Mr. Robert T. Hill of the United States geological survey delivered an address upon the "Geography and Geology of Costa Rica and Panama." The fact that he has only recently return ed from a tour of scientific investigation of the region, during which he saw a good deal of the prevailing revolutionary spirit, gave special interest to his remarks.

Mr. Hill's lecture, illustrated by a large number of very interesting lantern slides, mostly from photogrophs taken by him during his recent trip, was partly popular and partly technical in character, descriptive of the topography, vegetation, products, architecture and customs of the widely contrasting regions of the Isthmus of Panama and the modern Spanish-American republic of Costa Rico to the northward The isthmus was discussed as a type of the low-lying coastal lands of the tropical to the Jury.

At 10:10 this morning the jury in the case of Thos. J. Taylor, charged with the murder of his wife, Nannie W., on the 14th of last September, returned a verdict of guilty as indicted. The defendant received the verdict with great calmness, evidently having nerved himself to hear the worst, and after Mr. E. G. Niles had given notice of a motion for a new trial, the jury first hav-

Contrast at Costa Rica.

Costa Rica, on the other hand, is an example of the higher and better climatic corditions existing in the tropical American region, where indigenous civilization flourishes under healthy climatic conditions. Mr. Hill spoke of this as an ideal country, and praised the hospitality and progressive spirit of the people. Illustra-tions were given of the entire course of the progressive spirit of the people. Illustrations were given of the entire course of the Panama canal, showing the topography, cuttings, machinery and laborers at present working upon the construction. While not committing himself to any preference of canal routes, he said that the affairs of the Panama Canal Company had been painted in this country much darker than they deserved. The terminal port facilities have been completed. Nearly twenty-five miles of the canal are finished, reducing the distance between the oceans from forty-seven to twenty-two miles. About two-fifths of the necessary grading has been accomplished, and every possible machine and tool for its completion is upon the ground. The great problem of controlling and diverting the waters of the Chagres has also been accomplished.

The lecturer gave interesting accounts of the various zones of vegetation seen in ascending the great volcanoes of Costa Rica, and, incidentally, a general description and classification of the region bordering the gulf and Caribbean sea. Especial attention was called to the important bearing of this Spanish-American region, between the latitude of the Orinoco and the southern boundary of the United States, upon the great problems of continental development, and its corrolated biologic and meteorologic problems; and to the great work Prof. Alexander Agassiz has undertaken at his own expense in studying the marine physiography of the region, especially as regards the origin of its vast areas of coral reefs.

Classification of Mountain Systems.

Classification of Mountain Systems. In speaking of the mountains, he classified the systems as follows:

1. The southern extension of the Coralleron region of the United States, which terminates with the great scarp of the Mexican plateau in the latitude of Vera

2. The Andes proper, the north and south ridges of which end abruptly in northern Colombia.

3. A system of more ancient mountains, 3. A system of more ancient mountains, having an east and west trend, and composed of mesozoic rocks, with poleozoic axes, extending along the north coast of South America (between the Caribbean and Orinoco), throughout the Greater Antilles, and through Guatemala, Nicaragua and British Honduras. For this Mr. Hill proposed the name of the "Antillean system." It was shown that there were submarine topographic ridges connecting the Honduras.

posed the name of the "Antillean system."
It was shown that there were submarine topographic ridges connecting the Honduras peninsula with the Islands of Jamaica, Hayti and Puerto Rico, probably also part of this ancient corrugation.

4. Protuberances of older volcanic accumulation, such as the Windward Islands and Isthmian region.

5. Mountains of recent volcanic accumulation, including the three widely separated groups, with different trends, of southern Mexico, Central America and the northern Andes, all more or less parasitic upon the termini of the antecedent and fundamental mountain systems of corrugation, and to a certain extent (owing to their newness and greater mass) concealing them.

At the close of the meeting, which was thoroughly enjoyed by a large audience, Mr. McG-2e, who presided, announced that the lecture next Friday evening, in National Rifies' Hall, will be an illustrated one by Mr. Frank Hamilton Cushing; also, that details regarding the field day at Fredericksburg will be forwarded very soon to all members, and that a fine map of the region would be given to each of the party.

At Palacha City, Wash., Wednesday evening, David Crumpacker, a butcher, shot his wife and a man named Eben Johnson, Mrs. Crumpacker and Johnson were standing near the door, and Crumpacker intended to kill Johnson, who had been the despoiler
